Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Link, Vol. 7 Fred W. Leu ( Will Blood Tell? on page 3) comes from a line of Swiss farmers, though he was born in America. All of you sons of the soil know that farming means hard work, and this author started to earn at the age of ten as a devil in a country print shop. He has done a great deal of printing, writing, advertising, and promoting since then, as well as attaining a college degree and four years of law study. Daniel Poling, world Christian Endeavor leader, dubbed him Christian Endeavor Expert when he was about twenty-one, but, Mr. Leu declares, We ll be discreet and not mention the year. Wally Feltman ( Chappie, page 7), who entered the Navy from the middle of high school, has written several articles on his experiences in the service, and sold one to Pic magazine. You may find someone you know in the pages of his article. James Blish ( The Torrid Type, page 11) informs us that this story was one of the prize-winners in the Writers Digest short-story contest last year. It marks his 65th appearance in print, exclusive of newspaper writing. During the war Mr. Blish was a medical laboratory technician in an Army hospital, and now manages a rewrite service for ailing manuscripts. Mr. Blish says his wife is also a writer, but they hope the little girl, aged five, will grow up to be sensible instead. Marion Wefer ( A Psychiatrist During the Terror, page 16) is a registered nurse, a minister s wife, and a writer. She is best known as a dramatist, having won several national...
