Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Journal of the Comte D espinchal: During the Emigration, Edited From the Original Manuscripts The Comte d Espinchal, whose Journal we are now giving to the world, was an excellent example of the interesting personalities so common in society at the end of the eighteenth century. This handsome gentleman of quality, with his tall, striking figure, his dark complexion, his open countenance, and his strongly pronounced aquiline nose, typified in his own person the supreme distinction of his race. As a scion of one of the oldest families of Auvergne, and the only son of a man who had been one of the Kings pages, he was taken to a boarding-school in Paris at the age of five, and a few years later, in 1762, was himself appointed a King s page in the Little Stables. He was soon attached to the household of the Dauphin, and when the latter died, in 1768, was for a short time page to the new Dauphin, the future Louis XVI; after which he became a captain in the...
