Tate Publishing Enterprises, United States, 2012. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 208 x 132 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Mother said a prayer for strength for Violet in her trials and all women struggling with the wrong men in their lives.Violet was elected homecoming queen in high school and won every award necessary to place her in the Pennsylvania state pageant. Mother was so proud of that, because living in a predominantly Caucasian community showed that her children had what it took to make it in both worlds. But instead she chose the love of Charlie. Now look where love had taken her. You can lead them to water. Mother sighed. Living in a predominantly white community has its challenges, but Mother has still managed to raise two wonderful daughters who are proud of their African American heritage. Tanya has risen to valedictorian and prom queen, as well as catching one of the track star athletes in school. When Violet, Mother s older daughter, finally decides to leave her philandering, alcoholic husband and find a new life, she leans on Mother and her sister, Tanya, for support. Although Mother may have not gone the traditional route and graduated college or married the best men, she remains a guiding light for her daughters. She never fails to give them the wisdom and advice they need. Licia Gregory s inspirational and poignant story tells the story of Mother, who stands through every hardship as the symbol of an independent, resilient African American woman. Licia Gregory pens a realistic story about familial struggles and overcoming life s adversities. Mari Walker Author of Never As Good the First Time.
