The existing regime which had identified Home Missions with denominational operations for ministering chiefly to pioneer conditions in frontier regions, came gradually to an end. New situations, involving acute problems, arising from economic, social and moral conditions, thrust themselves into prominence everywhere. Political Economists, Social Reformers and Christian Philanthropists were beginning to exercise thought and enlist their sympathies to meet the domestic crisis, induced by increasing immigration, social unrest, the declining country church, overcrowding in cities, isolated mountain people, and other backward classes. The Church, occupied with its individual denominational propaganda, and in the throes of a nation-wide Forward Movement in Foreign Missions, failed to recognize promptly the Home Mission crisis which had sprung up over night. Such was the status of affairs when the Young People s Missionary Movement was inaugurated by the leading denominations of the country. Those who represented the Presbyterian Church in the United States were Reverends...
